

Benjamin Franklin's Maxims

Find the matching part for each incomplete sentence.

- |                                     |  |
|-------------------------------------|--|
| ___ Honesty is                      | A often a great Lie.                     |
| ___ 'Tis hard for an empty          | B sack to stand upright.                 |
| ___ Experience keeps a dear school, | C but fools will learn in no other.      |
| ___ Early to bed, early to rise,    | D hurt, instruct.                        |
| ___ Little strokes,                 | E without pains.                         |
| ___ He that falls in love with      | F makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise. |
| ___ Now I have a sheep and a cow,   | G they tell you your Faults.             |
| ___ Keep your eyes wide open before | H himself will have no rivals.           |
| ___ Great talkers,                  | I fell great oaks.                       |
| ___ Well done is                    | J the best policy.                       |
| ___ Half the Truth is               | K marriage, half shut afterwards.        |
| ___ The Things which                | L little doers.                          |
| ___ Experience keeps a dear school, | M better than well said.                 |
| ___ Love your Enemies, for          | N yet Fools will learn in no other.      |
| ___ No gains                        | O everybody bids me good-morrow.         |

Benjamin Franklin's Maxims

Find the matching part for each incomplete sentence.

J Honesty is

A often a great Lie.

B 'Tis hard for an empty

B sack to stand upright.

C Experience keeps a dear school,

C but fools will learn in no other.

F Early to bed, early to rise,

D hurt, instruct.

I Little strokes,

E without pains.

H He that falls in love with

F makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise.

O Now I have a sheep and a cow,

G they tell you your Faults.

K Keep your eyes wide open before

H himself will have no rivals.

L Great talkers,

I fell great oaks.

M Well done is

J the best policy.

A Half the Truth is

K marriage, half shut afterwards.

D The Things which

L little doers.

N Experience keeps a dear school,

M better than well said.

G Love your Enemies, for

N yet Fools will learn in no other.

E No gains

O everybody bids me good-morrow.